

Nico Vagner Biography

During high school, I spent a good chunk of my free time going camping to do very amateur astronomy with a bad telescope on dark nights. My current plan is to graduate in spring 2025 and then enroll in a graduate program to get a masters degree in either astronomy or astrophysics. My main goal for the research project this year is to finish discovering and removing the remaining false-positive events that do not meet our clear-cut removal criteria, and to publish a paper with our updated results.
